Chamber Selects MAGNET to Enhance Membership Program

Winston-Salem (March 16, 2010) – The Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce today announced the selection of MAGNET, a collaborative of six Winston-Salem-based marketing, web development, communications and research firms, as its partner in a three-year effort to bolster the Chamber's membership and awareness program.

"The Chamber provides vital services to its members and the community," says Gayle Anderson, president and chief executive officer of the Chamber, "but we have a significant opportunity to increase the awareness and understanding of what we do. We look forward to working with MAGNET and their multi-disciplinary team. They will help us think differently about our organization; how we can bring more value to what we offer and attract new members; how we can collaborate with the community in innovative ways; and how we can refresh our outreach efforts to help all our members do more business."

In December of last year, Anderson contacted Chamber member firms in the marketing and communications industry with an invitation to engage in a discussion on how the Chamber could better communicate with its members and the larger community and grow the Chamber membership to 2,500 organizations. With the wide range of excellent agencies in Winston-Salem, Anderson acknowledged that there were many qualified firms that could assist the Chamber and sought proposals from them.

"We had a variety of approaches suggested and reviewed a number of excellent proposals from our local agency Chamber members, making the selection very difficult," Anderson said. "After much deliberation, we selected MAGNET, consisting of Excalibur Direct Mail & Marketing, DavidsonRoth, Feisty PR, InnerEye Studios, Quest Analysis and Unitec. It will develop a marketing program that incorporates business-to-business lead generation, public relations, event management, market research, direct marketing, website optimization, and marketing strategy and branding to create new ways for prospects and members to engage with the Chamber."

"I applaud Gayle and her team for their decision to enlist the Chamber's members in this vital endeavor," said J.D. Wilson, president of Excalibur Direct Mail & Marketing. "We believe the team we've custom-built for the Chamber is the ideal partner to address its needs at this crucial time in its 125-year history. Not only do we represent a diverse cross-section of the Chamber's membership, including one of its oldest members, some of its newest members, and three women-owned companies, but our group is a testament to Winston-Salem's ability to attract and retain promising young professionals."
